RAILWAY SHOPMEN WILL CAST BALLOTS ON STRIKE QUESTION IN TWO WEEKS

Washington, Aug. 27.—What the next move of the government will be in the event that the 500,000 railroad shopmen of the country vote to strike for an immediate increase in wages was being made a question for speculation in official circles today. It was the consensus of opinion however that the government's action in such an eventuality has not yet been considered and there were indications that for the time being the attitude of the officials would be to cross that bridge when they came to it.

Ordinarily labor leaders pointed out it would require about three weeks to take a strike vote among the half million workers involved. But in this instance orders have been given that the balloting be expedited and the returns made by wire, with the possibility that the result would be known at the end of two weeks.

B. L. Jewell, head of the railroad employees department of the American Federation of Labor, with which the shopmen are affiliated, refused today to predict what the outcome of the balloting would be, whether the men would accept President Wilson's decision, that there be no wage increase

BIG SCHOONER IS DESTROYED BY FIRE; CREW IS PICKED UP

Boston, Aug. 27.—A message from the American steamer Pequot to the E. P. Boggs company, here today announced the destruction by fire at sea of the three masted schooner George D. Edmunds, of Boston, and the rescue of her crew of seven men by the Pequot after they had drifted at the mercy of winds and waves for eight days in an open boat.

The Edmunds was bound from Bermuda to Hillsboro, N. B., where she was to have taken on a cargo of plaster for New Haven. She caught fire 300 miles south south-west of Nantucket on August 17. The flames spread so rapidly that Captain B. D. Coleman, of Springfield, ordered the crew to abandon her.

OFFICERS OF UNION WILL TAKE CHARGE OF STRIKE SITUATION

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27.—Officers of the Carmen international union were in Pittsburgh today to take charge of the strike situation here. As a result the conductors and motormen will vote again on the question of returning to work. In the meantime the receivers will not attempt to run the cars with strikebreakers.

The international officers insist that the men return to work in accordance with their written agreement to abide by the award of the war labor board. Unless they do so the local union will be outlawed and the international will attempt to run the cars with new employees.

HAS REMARKABLE RESEMBLANCE TO PRESIDENT WILSON.

James J. McCabe
No, you're wrong. This is not President Wilson, but James J. McCabe, District Superintendent of Schools of New York City. A recent visit to Washington had to be cut short because of the crowds that followed him in the belief he was the President.

MANUFACTURE OF EXPLOSIVES STOPPED

London, Aug. 27.—The manufacture of explosives in Great Britain has practically ceased as a result of the government's program for national economy, it was learned today. The admiralty has suspended all warship construction pending revised army, navy and air estimates. Radical new economy measures are said to be forthcoming soon.

ALL ARE INVITED.

On account of change of address some of the men of service have failed to receive their invitation to the Greene County Home Coming dinner and celebration in this city on Labor Day. A public invitation is extended to any such, and also to any visiting soldier, sailor or marine who may be in the county on that day.

All service men are requested to register and receive a badge. Boy Scouts will assist in directing to place of registration, which will be in the Court House near the Main street entrance, between the hours of eight and ten o'clock.

ALLEGED MURDERER IS HELD IN IRONS

Alliance, O., Aug. 27.—Raymond Phelps, alleged murderer of eight-year-old Francis Jommell, today is in irons in solitary confinement in the Hocking county jail. Phelps had been taken to the Lancaster jail. There he became unruly smashing everything in his cell. As a result he was brought here where he could be kept in close confinement.

Mrs. John C. Sharer, Sanford of this city became suddenly worse today and grave fears are entertained for her recovery.

A daughter, Anne Sharer, is orphaned by the tragedy which took the lives of both her father and mother. Mrs. Sharer early to-day seemed improving but during the morning her condition rapidly became worse. Paroxysms set in and death soon followed.

Alliance, O., Aug. 27.—With the death toll of the fatal dinner at the Lakeside country club, raised to four efforts today were directed towards the identification of the death dealing poison. Chemical analysis alone will probably determine its source.

The death last night of John C. Sharer, Alliance jeweler, was the fourth fatal case of ptomaine poisoning following the dinner. Mrs. Wm. A. Gahris, of Sebring, hostess at the party, was the first to succumb, being followed closely by Colonel C. C. Weybrecht, the honor guest. Robert Jennings, a waiter, also died.

Specialists disagree on the nature of the poisoning. Dr. John Phillips of Cleveland declared that all of the symptoms of the cases he attended indicated that death was caused by a form of ptomaine poisoning found only in meat. This caused the field turkey—probably cold storage—had caused their death.

On the other hand physicians who attended Jennings, the waiter, declared that the source of the poison must have been olives served at the dinner. They expressed the belief that the olives were taken to the Aultman wood alcohol. Poisoning from wood alcohol first affects the ocular nerves causing blindness, followed by paralysis. These symptoms were observed in Jennings' case.

Following an autopsy today the stomach of Jennings will be sent to Dr. John G. Spender, Cleveland bacteriologist, for analysis. Samples of both the turkey and the olives will also be analyzed. Coroner T. C. McQuade said today that no post mortem examination would be made in the cases of Colonel Weybrecht, Mrs. Gahris and Mr. Sharer.

Arrangements were under way today for the funeral of Col. Weybrecht on Friday. The honorary pall bearers will be officers from the old Eighth Ohio, known as "McKinley's own" in the old days of the national guard. The funeral will be of a military nature befitting the career of the veteran national guardsman and more recently trusted officer of the American expeditionary forces.

A. Fred Morris, sales manager of the Morgan Engineering Co., who it was feared had taken sick in the east after being a guest at the dinner was located this morning in New York after a 24 hour frantic search by his wife and officials of the company. Morris was not well when he went east and nothing was heard from him for two days. He wired today that he is well.

The death of McElroy at Canton served to strengthen belief of officials of the club and some physicians that the poison was contained in the olives served at the dinner. McElroy is said to have declared before his death that he did not partake of the turkey but had eaten some of the olives. He was taken to the Aultman hospital.

Mrs. John C. Sharer, whose husband died last night, was hovering between life and death today and her chances of recovery said today to be very slim. Coroner McQuade announced that early today the stomach intestines, kidneys and liver of Jennings had been removed and sent to Cleveland along with samples of the olives served at the dinner for analysis.

KINGSBURY FILLY WINS STAKE EVENT FOR TWO YEAR OLDS

Betty K., R. S. Kingsbury's two-year-old trotting filly, put Xenia on the map among the racing fraternity by taking the $1,000 stake for Ohio bred two-year-old trotters at the Ohio State Fair Tuesday in straight heats.

Joe Hagler, also of this city, and trainer of the filly, drove her to the win in the classic, the fastest time being 2:24 1-4. In winning the stake the local filly beat some of the best horses in the two-year-old class in Ohio, such fillies as Bon Bergen The Liberty Bond, Senator Jolla and Search Worthy being bested on the twice-around.

The Kingsbury filly was trained on the local fair grounds track this season by Joe Hagler. She is a well bred being sired by the famous Binjolla and from the dam Sallie Thompsons, a progeny of Nutwood Wilkes. Her second dam was Wildomar, a Greene County product, owned by W. B. Bryson and her third dam was by Dictator and a dam of Robert K. She is a well gaited youngster with lots class and defeated the pick of the two-year-olds from Youngstown, Springfield and Columbus in the State Fair stake.

R. S. Kingsbury was at the State Fair Tuesday and saw his filly come under the wire for first place, among an entry list that barreled all horses not bred in Ohio. Mr. Kingsbury has not been racing any horses since his now historically famous season with Robert K. This great trotter, now dead, won nearly every race in which he started that season and held the record for the United States for the number of races won in the trotting division that season. He took a purse of 2:10 1/2 on the mile oval at Lexington and had a 2:12 3-4 mark on the two-timer circuits. Cliff Todd drove the famous Robert K. in those days.

Joe Hagler crowded into second money in the 2:12 pacing class with Frances D. also. After Homer D. Swearingen's pacer had taken two heats. He was left at the pole and distanced Hickory Bill coming back and taking the next heat. As only heat winners were to start back in the next heat, Hagler won second money without leaving the stables his record being 3:24-3. A $600 purse was divided among the money winners.

Johnny Jones, colored driver of this city and Cedarville had bad luck with his splendid little pacer Bessie L. stake winner at Springfield, when she threw him while stepping around the first turn in the third heat of the race, the fall breaking Jones' right leg. The fracture is a serious one and he was taken to the Protestant Hospital at once. Jones is a popular colored driver, well known here and has been in the money often on the local track and other places.

COLUMBUS SHOPMEN THINK THAT HINES WILL BACK DOWN

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—That Director General Hines will back down and will grant a larger increase when he finds that the railroad shopmen throughout the United States are standing firm for a 17 cent an hour wage increase was the opinion expressed by Scott Wehe, head of the local organization of shopmen employed by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Unless more than four cents increase is granted, the 4,000 Pennsylvania shopmen here will urge a strike soon, according to Wehe.

THIEVES STRIP WRECKED CAR OF ALL ACCESSORIES

Taking advantage of a stalled Ford car belonging to John A. Fifer, where it stood on the Jamestown pike after being struck by another machine Sunday, car thieves stripped the machine of practically all of its accessories.

The machine was damaged when it and another car from the Fifer barn was returning with a party from Chillicothe. At Rosemoor, along the Jamestown pike, a speeding machine sideswiped both cars disabling one of them. The people were brought to this city in the one good machine and two new tires on the side of the disabled car were also carried in.

On his return to the scene Monday morning, Mr. Fifer found that the car had been rifled. Three of the tires had been taken, and the other having been ruined by the accident, the four coils taken from the coil boxes and all the tools, including the jack, pump, pliers and other accessories removed. The accident happened at 9:30 o'clock and the thieves stripped the stalled car some time before.

The car was insured against theft which will cover the loss of the equipment.

GIRLS MAKE PLEA FOR SCHOOL UNIFORMS

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—Cleveland high school girls have made a plea to Superintendent of Schools Spaulding that uniform be adopted for school wear.

"Why not let us girls wear one-piece dresses or sailor dresses or something else plain to show we're high school girls?" wrote one of the girls to the superintendent. "We have a large family but only a small income and it's terribly hard not to be able to dress as well as the other girls."

Boys students wear uniforms and the letter concluded with the query: "Since the boys have their uniforms, why can't the girls, too?"

Superintendent Spaulding thinks the idea a good one and has promised to do all he can to have it put in

CONGRESS TAKES STEPS TO SUPPLY CARS FOR TRANSPORTATION OF COAL

Washington, Aug. 27.—Steps to ensure an immediate supply of cars for the transportation of coal will be taken by congress, as the result of the first day of investigation of the coal situation by a sub-committee of the interstate commerce committee, Senator Frelinghuysen, New Jersey, chairman of the sub-committee, said today.

One of the first recommendations to be made by the investigating committee to the senate will be that the railroad administration be called upon to show what efforts it is making to furnish all of the coal cars needed by the mines. If the investigation shows that the railroad administration is not meeting the demands then corrective steps will be taken.

"The transportation problem appears to be the crux of the whole situation," Senator Frelinghuysen said.

"As soon as there appears a shortage, then the little men will open up their mines and they will charge at that the traffic will bear," Taylor said.

"We cannot control them and I doubt whether congress would be able to control them. These men are called 'snow birds' for they come and go with the winter and close their mines when there is no coal shortage."

DRIVE AGAINST LIQUOR BUSINESS ON IN CHICAGO

MISS CARROLL DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS; SISTER ALSO IS ILL

Chicago, Aug. 27.—More arrests, including several large brewers, are looked for today in the drive of United States District Attorney Clyne on the liquor business, which, he charges, is thriving there, despite the wartime prohibition laws. In the meantime the liquor interests have laid plans to fight the efforts of the United States district attorney to stop the traffic.

They began their battle with a petition for an investigation asking that Zion City officials be restrained from interfering with the removal of 19 trucks which were held there en route from Milwaukee with cargoes of beer. Liquor interests, when presenting their petition in the United States district court let it be known that they intend making this a test case of the search and seizure law of the state.

Evidence has been obtained by Clyne it is declared showing that real beer is being manufactured in Illinois and the arrest of 15 big brewers is expected.

Chief of Police Garrity has admitted that ninety per cent of the saloons in Chicago are violating the prohibition laws, but that the police are handicapped in breaking up the violations because of a ruling of the city court that evidence collected by investigators by means of inducing saloon keepers to sell them drinks, is not admissible in the trial of the defendant.

GERMAN-MEXICAN PLOT TO INVADE AMERICA FOILED BY U. S. SECRET AGENT.

ANDREW JACKSON, President Greene county Old Soldiers' Organization.

Quartette of German spies operating in Mexico whose plot to invade America with an army of 45,000 Germans and Mexicans, was frustrated by Dr. Paul Bernardo Alendorf, a secret agent of the United States Military Intelligence Department. Dr. Altendorff, as a captain in the German Army and a colonel of Mexican troops, brought to naught plot after plot during the war, and finally was forced to flee from Mexico with a 20,000 peso price on his head. Kurt Janke, head of the German secret service in Mexico, organized and directed countless schemes against the United States, during the war. While operating in the United States he managed to obtain a position in the Department of Justice in San Francisco. General Elias Policarpo Calles, Governor of Sonora, whom Dr. Altendorff declares is the most rabid pro-German of all Mexican officials. He assisted German spy who escaped from jail in Nogales, Ariz., into Mexico. General Calles refused to deliver him into the hands of United States authorities. EVERY SOLDIER, SAILOR OR MARINE IN COUNTY INVITED

Owing to the difficulty experienced by the invitation committee in getting a complete and official list of every soldier, sailor and Marine in Greene county, there will probably be some of these fighting sons who will not receive an invitation to the Home Coming Celebration to be held here next Monday, Labor Day.

These men are not only welcome but are expected to be present just the same and they are requested not to feel slighted because they did not receive an invitation for its practically impossible to get the name of every one of the service men in this county. This may be taken as a general invitation to all soldiers, sailors and Marines to be present on that day.

Soldier, sailor or marine visitor in the city on that day will also be included among the guests of honor. The Greene county service men are reminded of a meeting to be held in the Assembly room of the court house at ten o'clock in the morning of Monday, for the purpose of organizing a local post of the American Legion. TELLS WHY SHE BOUGHT SECOND BOTTLE OF DRECO

Dayton Lady Had Tried Many Remedies For Constipation, Headaches, Stomach Troubles, But None Helped Like Dreco Did.

"I tried one bottle of Dreco, and it did me so much good I got the second one, and now I am buying the third, and I am feeling a whole lot better," said Mrs. Julia Bader, of 321 W. Hartford St., Dayton, O.

"I have suffered for years with a bad stomach trouble, and all my food seemed to ferment and fill me up with gas, and cause awful pains. It felt like I was choking sometimes, and I could not swallow it down, nor spit it out. Constipation was a continual source of annoyance and I often had splitting headaches, which nothing would relieve. My nerves were shattered and my sleep badly broken, for I would roll and toss all night long, and when morning came, would be exhausted.

"So many of my friends had tried Dreco, with such good results, that I decided to try it also, and, without a doubt, it has reached my case, for I now eat most anything I crave, and it never hurts me the slightest. I am never bothered with the gas or pains, and the constipation has gone entirely. My nerves are much stronger, and I get good, full night's rest now, and wake up fresh and full of vigor. I haven't had headache since the second day I started on Dreco. I certainly do recommend Dreco, for it has done me a world of good.

Dreco does not contain any iron, mercury, potash, acids or oils, but is made from the juices and extracts of many herbal plants, which combine with the juices of the stomach very pleasantly and act on the vital organs.

All good druggists now sell Dreco not only on railroads, but in all other places of business, lies in a reduction of living costs—not effectively in increased wages."

one is urged to attend this important meeting.

The necessity of having enough food for several hundred hungry soldier boys is another problem before the committee and people are urged not to forget to bring their share of food for the free dinner to soldiers. If a basket cannot be filled anything in the way of eatables will be gladly accepted by the committee, of which Mrs. Chas. S. Dean is chairman.

The program of the day is varied and promises not a lagging moment throughout the day. It is expected that people will begin arriving in the city early and will spend the entire day here, many of them bringing picnic meals.

FIFTY-TWO EGGS USED IN CAKE FOR SOLDIERS' DINNER

Fifty-two eggs were used in the concoction of a huge cake which was a feature of the dinner to returned soldiers of Lumberton and vicinity which was given at the Methodist church in that city, Monday night.

Mrs. Jerome Devoe baked the monstrous confection, which was served to the soldiers alone.

Fourteen returned soldiers and two Red Cross nurses in uniform were present. Long tables were set, serving 110 people, and it is estimated that 300 persons were served.

An interesting program was given in connection with the celebration. The principal address was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Crist, pastor of the Wilmington Presbyterian church, and an entertaining musical program was also rendered.

There was an effective touch given to the program when Miss Dor Strauton of Wilmington sang, "The Rose of No Man's Land," while the two uniformed Red Cross nurses stood.

"Well, this is a new one!" he muttered. "I say, little one, wake up! This old switch yard is no place for you."

He had touched one hand lying loosely over the edge of the bench. The girl aroused so magically quick and her big blue eyes opened so wide and challenging that Myron Trask re-treated a step or two.

"That is the 6:15 western dispatch, isn't it—can you tell me?"

"I can," nodded Trask, "but what have you to do with the 6:15?"

"To get into an empty car. It goes to Meriden, my home town, and that is the only way, unless I walk."

"I see you have done something in that line already," suggested Trask, glancing at her broken shoes, one heel less and its side ripped by a rail splitter, the other with a flapping sole.

"Yes, clear from Chicago. I can't barefooted as I will soon be if I keep on tramping, so I was going to st my way."

Myron Trask took silent survey the forlorn little figure. He steadied himself erect and breathed hard through compressed lips. "See here, Miss," he said finally, "I had a sister once, and you've set me thinking. Tell me a little about yourself and maybe I can help you on your way."

"Why, yes, I'll tell you all about it," said the girl with ingenuous frankness. "My name is Irma Dalziel. I have been filling a little speaking part in 'Hearts and Homes.' Good people, they were, from the manager down. I ran away from home to join them. They went to pieces last week and there wasn't enough left to pay car fare. I've written father and mother that I am through with my foolish dream of becoming a great actress and am on my way back to the dear old place I'll never leave again. Oh never—never—never!"

So longing, so intense, so rapturous were the accents, so vivid, so rapturous did they frame within the mentality of Myron Trask, that he seemed to covet such a paradise of relief and joy, as for himself, for Trask was on the seat of contrition and repentance at the present time.

"Strange, Miss," he said in an uncertain tone, "but you and I seem to be in the same boat. I got my dismissal from service last week for going on a bout with the crowd. The road may or may not take me back, but no more of the reckless and silly for me. I've got no money, but the hotel will give Myron Trask anything he wants, and you're going to go there with me and get a good meal. Then you are going to the depot and wait for the 8:15 passenger. I'll put you in charge of old Boyd Wesley, the conductor. He'll see you onto the branch at Aberdeen. At that terminus you'll have only fifty-six miles on the Northern. And when you get back to your dear little home, stay there, and once in a while think of the railroad lads, rough and ready, and sometimes reckless, but with hearts as big as pumpkins when they see a woman needing help."

"Why you almost make me cry," said Irma soberly. "You'd make a star hit on the stage with such a human interest speech as that. I'll never forget you."

"Maybe I'd have made a better record and kept straight if I had been lucky enough to run across a girl like you," said Myron, with a slight catch in his voice, as he bade her goodby at the depot. "Show this card to whatever conductor you run across," and he handed her a bit of pasteboard upon which he had scrawled a few words. "I'm not much just now, but my name will go as far as that of the president of the road with my true pals."

A sudden rush of tears came to the eyes of Irma as she clasped the hand of her benefactor. She leaned towards him and impulsively kissed his bronzed, beard-toughened face with the words: "How your dead sister must have loved you!" Then a moment later she waved adieu to him through an open coach window and for a long time after the train had gone Myron Trask stood reflecting, caressing the cheek where that warm kiss of gratitude had been bestowed.

It was noticeable by the former reckless comrades of Myron later that he eschewed their company and idleness. By some influence he became reinstated with the road and asked for a position as station agent and his chosen post was the little town where Irma lived.

She was not a dull girl and she discerned a motive in his seeking to be near her. He was frank and outspoken and he emphasized the why and wherefore by a free confession when they had become better acquainted. And so they were married.

Better Days

Cuddled up like a mouse, lying upon a rude board bench at the side of an abandoned switch shanty, her hand supporting her head and enmeshed in a mass of loose golden tresses, the girl, fast asleep, wore a smile upon her face as though her dreams were pleasant ones.

She could not have been over eighteen and her worn and ragged dress and crinkled ribbons were not in accord with the general neatness of her attire. A man lurched by, young like herself, paused and stared hard.

"Well, this is a new one!" he muttered. "I say, little one, wake up! This old switch yard is no place for you."

TWENTY-FIVE AMERICAN BEAUTIES COMPETE FOR MARY PICKFORD'S MOVIE CROWN.

Pretty girls seek Mary Pickford's crown.

Twenty-five beautiful American girls, selected from an entry list of 100,000 in a contest held by a motion picture magazine, gathered at the estate of Eugene V. Brewster, at Roslyn, L. I., to be judged as to their qualifications as successors to Mary Pickford in the movies. One of the twenty-five girls will be selected to replace Miss Pickford when the latter star retires from the movies. Miss Pickford announced recently, according to reports, her intention to retire. Here are four of the pretty girls photographed in Roslyn, L. I. Left to right: Miss Evelyn Pouch, of Louisville, Ky.; Miss Virginia Brown, of New York; Miss Blanche McGarity, of San Antonio, Tex., and Miss Lucille Klebold, of Atlanta, Ga.

The Violin Bow.
The shape of the present bow dates from the end of the eighteenth century when F. Tourte changed it from the bow shape as its name indicates. It should be from 27 to 30 inches long and contain from 130 to 150 hairs which are drawn tight by the nut. The stick is generally of snakewood, or lancewood.

Holland Coal.
Experts have estimated for the government that Holland's coal deposits contain more than 5,000,000 tons, but none of it is first grade fuel.

You Can't Cure Rheumatism With Liniments and Lotions

If you are afflicted with Rheumatism, why waste time with liniments, lotions and other local applications that never did cure Rheumatism, and never will?

Do not try to rub the pain away, for you never will succeed. Try the sensible plan of finding the cause of the pain. Remove the cause, and there can be no pain.

You will never be rid of Rheumatism until you cleanse your blood of the germs that cause the disease. S. S. S. has no equal as a blood cleanser, scores of sufferers say that it has cleansed their blood of Rheumatism, and removed all trace of the disease from their system.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at your drug store and get on the right treatment to-day. If you want special medical advice, address Medical Director, 49 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Asserts New Discovery Brings Blessed Relief To Rose and Hay Fever Sufferers

Can Make It Yourself At Home At Trifling Expense

In spite of all the dusters and scoffers, a man in Kentucky, who changed his annoying and distressing hay fever into less than a mild cold, claims most emphatically that if taken in time hay fever can be conquered or at least made so harmless that it is not even bothersome.

He gave his discovery to scores of other sufferers with the most remarkable results and has recently been prevailed upon to dispense it through pharmacists to all hay fever sufferers who still have faith that nature has provided an effective remedy for this common yet miserable disease.

And best of all this remedy costs nothing. Get a one ounce bottle of Mentholized Aricine at any drug store, pour the contents into a pint bottle and fill the pint bottle with water that has been boiled.

Then gargle as directed and twice daily sniff or spray each nostril thoroughly.

That's all there is to it; so simple that a lot of people will say that it can't do the work, but oftentimes simple natural remedies are the best as you will find after using.

If you will make up a pint and use it for a week or ten days you need not be surprised if your unwelcome yearly visitor fails to appear.

GREENE COUNTY SOLDIER IS HOME WITH FRENCH BRIDE

William Edgar Ginaven, and his pretty little French bride, who before her marriage was Mademoiselle Lucretta Beneventi of Nice, that delightful seaport and health resort on the Mediterranean, have arrived here, and are temporarily guests of Mr. Ginaven's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ginaven of the Beaver Creek road.

Crossing the Atlantic on the Victoria, a converted German vessel, Mr. Ginaven and his bride, were one couple among sixty bridgegrooms and brides who made the trip. The husbands were American soldiers, and the wives, French girls who had plighted their troth to the khaki clad youths from overseas.

The Victoria arrived at port in New York and the men aboard were given their discharge from the army at the dock.

While they were being discharged the brides were taken in charge by the Red cross who turned them over to the care of the Y. W. C. A. and their husbands, upon getting their release from army service, joined them at a Y. W. hostess house in New York City. The vessel docked last Friday and Mr. and Mrs. Ginaven reached here Sunday.

Mr. Ginaven says that his wife is delighted with America and with her new found friends here, and she is fast picking up the American tongue. He is planning to return to the employment in Dayton which he held before the war, and if so, he and his bride will take up their residence in that city.

Mr. Ginaven was overseas 16 months. He was a gunner in the 104th Infantry, 26th division, and was at Chateau Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne. He was twice gassed, but both times recovered without it being necessary for him to go to a permanent hospital.

After the armistice was signed he was sent to a school, where he spent three months and was then attached to the 269th Military Police Corps. He did duty in Paris, as a motorcycle officer, and there met his bride, who was in that city visiting her sister, who was a dressmaker.

He met the Mademoiselle Beneventi through his "buddy" William Grossly, of North Adams, Mass., who married the other sister, Emilie. Their courtship was brief, for the young people met in March and in July they were married at Ramberez, France. Young Grossly had married Mademoiselle Emilie a few weeks earlier, and he and his bride returned to the states on the same vessel which carried Mr. and Mrs. Ginaven.

Mr. Ginaven and his bride were given a hearty welcome by his parents and other relatives, and they are enjoying very much their brief stay at the country home of the Ginavens, where the little French girl is becoming acquainted with her new American relatives.

REV. F. L. TATE'S NERVE FORCE NOT EQUAL TO TASK

But He Soon Built It Up to the Needed Power by Using Nerve-Worth.

This well known colored minister, has derived extraordinary benefits from a single bottle of Nerve-Worth and he told the story most eloquently to Dayton's Nerve-Worth druggist.

Jenkin's Drug Store—For five years I have been in a very nervous condition. Did not have the nerve force to digest my food. I could only eat a few things. Doctors told me not to eat any cold lunch. My stomach and digestion were in a very bad condition. Gas formed on my stomach and caused terrible bloating. My blood was in very bad condition and circulation poor. My legs were cold and a numb feeling in them and my hands. Could not obtain any relief from my nervous breakdown until I took one bottle of Nerve-Worth and that changed everything. I am nervous no more. Can eat anything any time, no bloating and stomach and digestion in fine condition. Good circulation and blood. No numbness and cold feeling in my legs and hands. I am now feeling fine and have regained my health and vigor.

The Brunswick

Why the Brunswick Method of Reproduction Insures a Superior Phonograph

Reason No. 1 The Brunswick Method of Reproduction includes the Ultona, a new conception in playing. The Ultona consists of an arrangement of the several necessary reproducing diaphragms upon one tone arm—an all-in-one arrangement, with no attachments—nothing to take off or put on.

At a turn of the hand, the Ultona presents to any type of record the proper diaphragm and needle, the exact weight. Thus the requirements of each type of record are met. The Ultona demands no sacrifice in tone, as attachments often do.

Reason No. 2 Equal in importance to reproduction is tone amplification. The Brunswick Method of Reproduction also includes a new idea in acoustics—the Brunswick Amplifier.

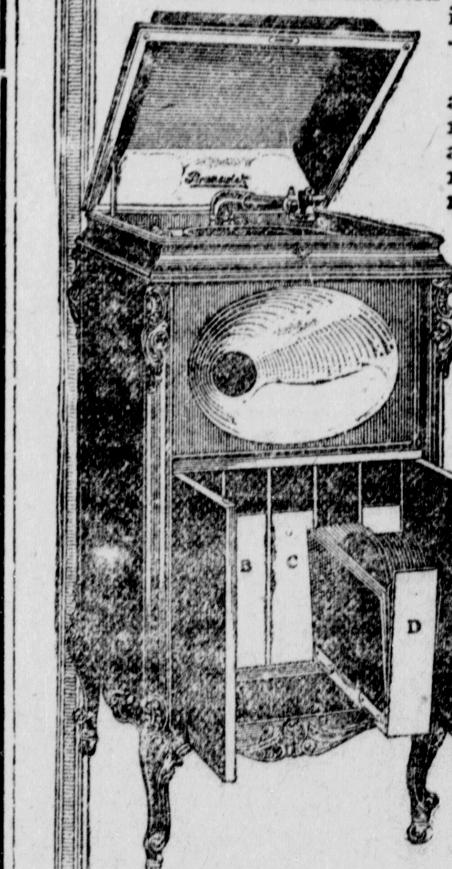

Old-time ideas were at variance. Some makers still cling to metal construction. Others use a combination of wood and metal—a wooden horn and a metal casting as the "throat."

But the Brunswick Amplifier is oval in shape, and built entirely of wood, like a fine violin. It is molded of rare holly-wood. The sound waves receive uniform amplification to reach their fullness, hence The Brunswick tone is richer and more natural. Strident, metallic notes are absent.

We invite Comparison. Make comparisons. Let your ear decide. Try to find an equal to Brunswick tone.

You're bound to end such a search at a Brunswick shop, where every opportunity will be given you to decide for yourself.

Hear this remarkable instrument before you decide.

Parking regulations for Labor Day when Greene County will honor its soldier sons with a Home Coming Celebration, and when there will undoubtedly be a large number of people in the city, have just been issued by Chief of Police Canaday.

No parking will be permitted in the business section of the city, owing to the parade and the number of people that will crowd the streets at that time. According to the police regulations there will be no parking on Main street between Whiteman and King streets and on Detroit street between Second and Market. There will be no parking at all on Green street.

SPEAK AT COMMUNITY
MEETING THURSDAY

Preparations for the Get-to-Gather Community meeting to be held in the Opera House Thursday at 7:30 p.m. are complete.

The speakers Committee which is composed of Kenyon Riddle, chairman, Judge H. L. Smith, Chalmers Murphy, C. L. Jobe and John W. Prugh, announced that in addition to addresses by Dr. D. F. Garland, of Dayton, E. Weigle, campaign manager, Dr. Austin Patterson would speak on "Xenia's Need for a Chamber of Commerce."

Whether it was the long absence from home, with music as the logical expression for the eager wistfulness of two years separation, or the association with the brilliance of French field music that accomplished the change, the band, excellent as it was before it left over-seas, has come back immensely improved. There is a unity and swell of the discipline show trained players under a trained master.

A double line of trumpeters, their horns decorated with banners bearing "166th Infantry," in gold letters, stands at attention, their instruments by their sides until time for them to play. When they get their cue, they raise their horns as one man, giving them the now famous French twirl and set them to their lips with a precision as even as the rhythm of their music.

With the gold fringed purple banners and their stalwart, straight figures, they look like heralds of knighthood days.

Then they suddenly shift formation, the horns and cornets being brought to the center, and with Frank Carbone, hearing this really famous band.

Springfield, Ill., August 27—Mayor Bauman may be a great promoter, but he's fallen down on his latest task. He simply can't build a moon in the center of the Pacific Ocean. Somebody wrote him about it. It's a money making scheme, evidently, for the writer says: "Let's start using many and several money and silver, pay me my money and I pay you your money, a star for every strip the moon should go higher, 7 severals loose me lay me down to sleep my baby, my baby, sure the kid is doing it." Then follow a lot of cabalistic signs that are said to have something to do with the movement of the planets or the wheels in somebody's head. The mayor hasn't decided yet whether someone is kidnaping him or whether the weather has gone to someone's head, but he's suspicious as "heck."

MOTORADS

Most motorists have the wrong impression about the pressure of air in tires in warm weather. The belief is quite common that on hot days the air pressure may increase to the point of causing a blowout. There is really nothing to this for the heat does not come from the temperature of the air on the outside, as is commonly supposed, but from the natural flexing of the tire as it rolls over the road.

As this heat is due to the bending of the tire, the same amount of heat is created regardless of the outside temperature. Most tire users believe that to overcome this effect the pressure must be decreased, and the practice is to run tires at less pressure on warm days. But this increases the bending of the tire carcass and the motorist actually aggravates the tire condition he seeks to relieve when he decreases the pressure in the tires.

It is true that on a very hot day the air pressure in tires that are used continually increases slightly, but never sufficiently to cause any injury to the tires. Tires are not fragile as some suppose and are able to stand three or four times the ordinary pressure used. There is more danger in decreasing the pressure than in permitting it to increase.

The French Island of Reunion has changed its name four times in 500 years. In 1793 it was Bourbon, as it had been for a century and a half since the convention changed it to Reunion. RAILWAY SHOPMEN WILL CAST BALLOTS ON STRIKE QUESTION IN TWO WEEKS

Washington, Aug. 27.—What the next move of the government will be in the event that the 500,000 railroad shopmen of the country vote to strike for an immediate increase in wages was being made a question for speculation in official circles today. It was the consensus of opinion however that the government's action in such an eventuality has not yet been considered and there were indications that for the time being the attitude of the officials would be to cross that bridge when they came to it.

Ordinarily labor leaders pointed out it would require about three weeks to take a strike vote among the half million workers involved. But in this instance orders have been given that the balloting be expedited and the returns made by wire, with the possibility that the result would be known at the end of two weeks.

B. L. Jewell, head of the railroad employees department of the American Federation of Labor, with which the shopmen are affiliated, refused today to predict what the outcome of the balloting would be, whether the men would accede to President Wilson's decision, that there be no wage increase

Boston, Aug. 27.—A message from the American steamer Pequot to the E. P. Boggs company, here today announced the destruction by fire at sea of the three masted schooner George D. Edmunds, of Boston, and the rescue of her crew of seven men by the Pequot after they had drifted at the mercy of winds and waves for eight days in an open boat.

The Edmunds was bound from Bermuda to Hillsboro, N. B., where she was to have taken on a cargo of plaster for New Haven. She caught fire 300 miles south-south-west of Nantucket on August 17. The flames spread so rapidly that Captain B. D. Coleman, of Springfield, ordered the crew to abandon her.

OFFICERS OF UNION WILL TAKE CHARGE OF STRIKE SITUATION

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27.—Officers of the cármen international union were in Pittsburgh today to take charge of the strike situation here. As a result the conductors and motormen will vote again on the question of returning to work. In the meantime the receivers will not attempt to run the cars with strikebreakers.

The international officers insist that the men return to work in accordance with their written agreement to abide by the award of the war labor board. Unless they do so the local union will be outlawed and the international will attempt to run the cars with new employees.

Logan, O., Aug. 27.—Raymond Phelps, alleged murderer of eight-year-old Francis Jommell, today is in irons in solitary confinement in the Hocking county jail. Phelps had been taken to the Lancaster jail. There he became unruly smashing everything in his cell. As a result he was brought here where he could be kept in close confinement.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Fannie Sellins, 45, organizer for the United Mine Workers, and a foreigner were shot and killed and five other persons were injured in a clash between strikers and their sympathizers and mine guards at Brackenridge, near here late yesterday. There has been a strike at the Allegheny Coal and Coal Co. mines for some time and the fight started when the guards ordered the strikers away from the property.

REV. Z. B. CAMPBELL DIES IN COLUMBUS

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—The death of Rev. Z. B. Campbell, 69, former chairman of the state civil service commission, occurred here this morning. Dr. Campbell's condition, due to cancer, had been serious for six months. While connected with Ohio Northern University at Ada, he was appointed a member of the commission by former Governor Frank B. Willis.

London, Aug. 27.—The manufacture of explosives in Great Britain has practically ceased as a result of the government's program for national economy, it was learned today. DEATH TOLL OF FATAL DINNER RAISED TO SIX Alliance, O., Aug. 27.—Mrs. John C. Sharer, 40, died at noon today bringing the death toll for the fatal dinner party at Lakeside club Saturday night to six. Her husband died during the night.

Mrs. Willard F. Sanford of this city became suddenly worse today and grave fears are entertained for her recovery.

A daughter, Anne Sharer, is orphaned by the tragedy which took the lives of both her father and mother. Mrs. Sharer early to-day seemed improving but during the morning her condition rapidly became worse. Paroxysms set in and death soon followed.

Alliance, O., Aug. 27.—With the death toll of the fatal dinner at the Lakeside country club, raised to four efforts today were directed towards the identification of the death dealing poison. Chemical analysis alone will probably determine its source.

The death last night of John C. Sharer, Alliance jeweler, was the fourth fatal case of ptomaine poisoning following the dinner. Mrs. Wm. A. Gahr, of Sebring, hostess at the party, was the first to succumb, being followed closely by Colonel C. C. Weybrecht, the honor guest. Robert Jennings, a waiter, also died.

Specialists disagree on the nature of the poisoning. Dr. John Phillips of Cleveland declared that all of the symptoms of the cases he attended indicated that death was caused by a form of ptomaine poisoning found only in meat. This caused the belief that turkey—probably cold storage—had caused their death.

On the other hand physicians who attended Jennings, the waiter, declared that the source of the poison must have been olives served at the dinner. They expressed the belief that the olives. He was taken to the Altmann wood alcohol. Poisoning from wood alcohol first affects the ocular nerves causing blindness, followed by paralysis. These symptoms were observed in Jennings' case.

Following an autopsy today the stomach of Jennings will be sent to Dr. John G. Spenger, Cleveland bacteriologist, for analysis. Samples of both the turkey and the olives will also be analyzed. Coroner T. C. McQuade said today that no post mortem examination would be made in the cases of Colonel Weybrecht. Mrs. Gahr and Mr. Sharer.

Arrangements were under way today for the funeral of Colone Weybrecht on Friday. The honorary pall bearers will be officers from the old Eighth Ohio, known as "McKinley's own" in the old days of the national guard. The funeral will be of a military nature befitting the career of the veteran national guardman and more recently trusted officer of the American expeditionary forces.

A. Fred Morris, sales manager of the Morgan Engineering Co., who it was feared had taken sick in the east after being a guest at the dinner was located this morning in New York after a 24 hour frantic search by his wife and officials of the company. Morris was not well when he went east and nothing was heard from him for two days. He wired today that he is well.

The death of McElroy at Canton served to strengthen belief of officials of the club and some physicians that the poison was contained in the olives served at the dinner. McElroy is said to have declared before his death that he did not partake of the turkey but had eaten some of the olives. He was taken to the Tuttman hospital.

Mrs. John C. Sharer, whose husband died last night, was hovering between life and death today and her chances of recovery said today to be very slim. Coroner McQuade announced that early today the stomach intestines, kidneys and liver of Jennings had been removed and sent to Cleveland along with samples of the olives served at the dinner for analysis.

KINGSBURY FILLY WINS STAKE EVENT FOR TWO YEAR OLDS

Betty K., R. S. Kingsbury's two-year-old trotting filly, out Xenia on the map among the racing fraternity, by taking the $1,000 stake for Ohio bred two-year-old trotters at the Ohio State Fair Tuesday in straight heats.

Joe Hagler, also of this city, and trainer of the filly, drove her to the win in the classic, the fastest time being 2:24 1-4. In winning the stake the local filly beat some of the best horse flesh in the two-year-old class in Ohio, such fillies as Bon Bergen The Liberty Bond, Senator Jolla and Search Worthy being beaten on the twice-around.

The Kingsbury filly was trained on the local fair grounds track this season by Joe Hagler. She is a well bred being sired by the famous Binjolla and from the dam Sallie Thompson, a progeny of Nutwood Wilkes. Her second dam was Wildomar, a Greene County product, owned by W. B. Bryson and her third dam was by Dictator and a dam of Robert K. She is a well gaited youngster with lots of class and defeated the pick of the two-year-olds from Youngstown, Springfield and Columbus in the State Fair stake.

R. S. Kingsbury was at the State Fair Tuesday and saw his filly come under the wire for first place, among an entry list that barred all horses not bred in Ohio. Mr. Kingsbury has not been racing any horses since his now historically famous season with Robert K. This great trotter, now dead, won nearly every race in which he started that season and held the record for the United States for the number of races won in the trotting division that season. He took a purse of 2:10 1/2 on the mile oval at Lexington and had a 2:12 3/4 mark on the two-timer circuits. Cliff Todd drove the famous Robert K. in those days.

Joe Hagler crowded into second money in the 2:12 pacing class with Frances D. also. After Homer D. Swearingen's pacer had taken two heats. He was left at the pole and distanced Hickory Bill coming back and taking the next heat. As only heat winners were to start back in the next heat, Hagler won second money without leaving the stables his record being 3:2-4:3. A $600 purse was divided among the money winners.

John Jones, colored driver of this city and Cedarville had bad luck with his splendid little pacer Bessie L. steeple winner at Springfield, when she threw him while steering around the first turn in the third heat of the race, the fall breaking Jones' right leg. The fracture is a serious one and he was taken to the Protestant Hospital at once. Jones is a popular colored driver, well known here and has been in the money often on the local track and other places.

COLUMBUS SHOPMEN THINK THAT HINES WILL BACK DOWN

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—That Director General Hines will back down and will grant a larger increase when he finds that the railroad shopmen throughout the United States are standing firm for a 17 cent an hour wage increase was the opinion expressed by Scott Wehe, head of the local organization of shopmen employed by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Unless more than four cents increase is granted, the 4,000 Pennsylvania shopmen here will urge a strike soon according to Wehe.

THIEVES STRIP WRECKED CAR OF ALL ACCESSORIES

Taking advantage of a stalled Ford car belonging to John A. Fifer, where it stood on the Jamestown Pike after being struck by another machine Sunday, car thieves stripped the machine of practically all of its accessories.

The machine was damaged when it and another came from the Fifer barn was returning with a party from Chillicothe. At Rosemoor, along the Jamestown pike, a speeding machine sideswiped both cars disabling one of them. The people were brought to this city in the one good machine and two new tires on the side of the disabled car were also carried in.

On his return to the scene Monday morning, Mr. Fifer found that the car had been rifled. Three of the tires had been taken, and the other having been ruined by the accident, the four coils taken from the coil boxes and all the tools, including the jack, pump, pliers and other accessories removed. The accident happened at 9:30 o'clock and the thieves stripped the stalled car some time before morning.

The car was insured against theft which will cover the loss of the equipment.

GIRLS MAKE PLEA FOR SCHOOL UNIFORMS

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—Cleveland high school girls have made a plea to Superintendent of Schools Spaulding that a uniform be adopted for school wear.

"Why not let us girls wear uniforms or something else plain to show we're high school girls?" wrote one of the girls to the superintendent. "We have a large family but only a small income and it's terribly hard not to be able to dress as well as the other girls."

Boys students wear uniforms and the letter concluded with the query: "Since the boys have their uniforms, why can't the girls, too?"

Superintendent Spaulding thinks the idea a good one and has promised to do all he can to have it put in effect.

BAKER ASKS FOR BIG APPROPRIATION

Washington, Aug. 27.—An appropriation of approximately $8,000,000 was today asked of congress by Secretary of War Baker for the purchase of real estate and construction of various army projects.

CONGRESS TAKES STEPS TO SUPPLY CARS FOR TRANSPORTATION OF COAL

Washington, Aug. 27.—Steps to ensure an immediate supply of cars for the transportation of coal will be taken by congress, as the result of the first day of investigation of the coal situation by a sub-committee of the interstate commerce committee, Senator Frelinghuysen, New Jersey, chairman of the sub-committee, said today.

One of the first recommendations to be made by the investigating committee to the senate will be that the railroad administration be called upon to show what efforts it is making to furnish all of the coal cars needed by the mines. If the investigation shows that the railroad administration is not meeting the demands then corrective steps will be taken.

"The transportation problem appears to be the crux of the whole situation," Senator Frelinghuysen said. "We cannot control them and they are called 'snow birds' for they come and go with the winter and close their mines when there is no coal shortage."

DRIVE AGAINST LIQUOR BUSINESS ON IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Aug. 27.—More arrests, including several large brewers, are looked for today in the drive of United States District Attorney Clyne on the liquor business, which, he charges, is thriving there, despite the wartime prohibition laws. In the meantime the liquor interests have laid plans to fight the efforts of the United States district attorney to stop the traffic.

They began their battle with a petition for an investigation asking that Zion City officials be restrained from interfering with the removal of 19 trucks which were held there en route from Milwaukee with cargoes of beer. Liquor interests, when presenting their petition in the United States district court let it be known that they intend making this a test case of the search and seizure law of the state.

Evidence has been obtained by Clyne it is declared showing that real beer is being manufactured in Illinois and the arrest of 15 big brewers is expected. Chief of Police Garretty has admitted that ninety per cent of the saloons in Chicago are violating the prohibition laws, but that the police are handicapped in breaking up the violations because of a ruling of the city court that evidence collected by investigators by means of inducing saloon keepers to sell them drinks is not admissible in the trial of the defendant.

GERMAN-MEXICAN PLOT TO INVADE AMERICA FOILED BY U. S. SECRET AGENT.

Quartette of German spies operating in Mexico whose plot to invade America with an army of 45,000 Germans and Mexicans, was frustrated by Dr. Paul Bernardo Alendorf, a secret agent of the United States Military Intelligence Department. Dr. Alendorf, as a captain in the German Army and a colonel of Mexican troops, brought to naught plot after plot during the war, and finally was forced to flee from Mexico with a 20,000 peso price on his head. Kurt Janke, head of the German secret service in Mexico, organized and directed countless schemes against the United States, during the war. While operating in the United States he managed to obtain a position in the Department of Justice in San Francisco. General Elias Polcarpo Calles, Governor of Sonora, whom Dr. Alendorf declares is the most rabid pro-German of all Mexican officials. He assisted German spy who escaped from jail in Nogales, Ariz., into Mexico. General Calles refused to deliver him into the hands of United States authorities. Lathar Witcke, alias Pablo Wahrschi, German agent now in solitary confinement at Fort Sam Houston. He is the author of the Black Tom explosion.

HUNDRED GUESTS IN ATTENDANCE AT BEAUTIFUL WEDDING

Masses of the delicate lace flower gladioli, summer bloom in profusion, mingled with the dark verdure of pine and palms at the wedding of Miss Marguerite Marie Gilkey, to John Harvey Rickenbacker, of Forest, O., which took place in the presence of nearly 100 guests at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Knox Hutchison, in Cedarville, Tuesday evening.

Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, officiated at the double ring service which was solemnized in the south parlor of the Hutchison home at 7:30 o'clock.

An electric archway marked the entrance to the marriage altar. Incandescent in colors outlined the arch, and the white altar was surrounded with flowers and ferns.

A program of nuptial music was played while the guests gathered for the ceremony, with Miss Iva Llewellyn, of Dayton, at the piano. George Smith, of Spring Valley sang, "I Love You Truly," and Miss Dorothy Oglesbee, "O Promise Me." Miss Llewellyn played "Hearts and Flowers," which strains blended into that of the wedding march by Mendelssohn, as the bridal procession began its descent of the flower entwined staircase.

Little Ruth Mitchell and Frances McChesney, dainty in pink and white frocks, stretched the white ribbons from the foot of the stairway to the altar, making a pathway for the bridal procession. Leading the procession were the three maids, Misses Helen Oglesbee, of Cedarville, Katherine Waterbury, of Detroit, and Reba Harrison, of Cedarville, while next in order walked the maid of honor, Miss Ruth Harris, of Centerville, with the best man, Merle Johnson, in rainbow colored frocks of organdie. The maids were a fascinating bevy. Miss Harris was in yellow, while blue, pink and green, were the colors worn by the other maids. Each wore a corsage bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The bride was escorted by the bridegroom, and she was a picture of girlish grace in her robe of white georgette crepe, her tulie veil birthed to the hem of her gown. A wreath of orange blossoms held the veil in place, and she carried an immense spray of pink and white sweetheart roses.

Following the service a course of ice cream, cake and punch was served. The bride's table with covers for fifteen was laid in the dining room, and the other guests were served throughout the rooms. For the bride's table there was a centerpiece of sweetheart roses, and individual pink candles at each cover. The electric dome over the table was covered with pink crepe paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Rickenbacker started during the evening on a honeymoon trip on the lakes and to Niagara Falls, the bride wearing away a brown tailored suit, with rose colored georgette blouse and small velvet hat.

The young couple cleverly eluded the guests who were waiting to give them a merry send off, and went to the home of a friend, where they prepared for their journey, getting away before the wedding guests were aware of the fact.

They will live at Greenville, where Mr. Rickenback will become principal of a high school. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rickenback graduated last June from Cedarville college, with the A. B. degree. Mrs. Rickenback at that time was awarded a four years' provisional high school certificate. The friendship and romance which culminated in their marriage had its origin during their college course.

Among gifts received by the young couple, was a check for $2,000 from the bride's parents.

Among guests at the wedding were the following from a distance: Everett Milburn, Alfred Jones, Misses Iva Llewellyn, Victoria Mink and Esther Harley, of Dayton; Mrs. J. F. Hutchison, Miss Janet McClellan, John W. Collins of Xenia; Mr. and Mrs. Rickenback, Carl and the Misses Ruth and Wilma Rickenback, of Forest, the bridegroom's parents, brother and sisters; George Smith, of Spring Valley; Mrs. H. D. Darnell, of Union City, Ind.

SHERIFF MAKES NIGHT TRIP AFTER PRISONER

Sheriff Funderburg made a trip by night to Richmond, Ind., to bring back Albert King, wanted by the probate court for two years, on a charge of non-support. Judge J. C. Marshall received a telephone message late Tuesday night that King was under arrest. He notified the sheriff who told the court that if a warrant were made out at once he would go after King immediately.

Judge Marshall prepared the affidavit, and at 2 o'clock Wednesday morning, the sheriff started for Richmond in his own car. King was turned over to him without it being necessary to have requisition papers, and by 4 o'clock the sheriff was back in Ohio with his prisoner. At 7 o'clock King had breakfast in the Greene county jail.

Where Seagulls Roost.

Seagulls do not always roost on the water, as persons familiar with the places say that thousands of gulls roost in trees on Big Duck, Little Duck and Old Man Islands in Maine, and not only roost in trees but nest in them as well. The same is true of many other islands along the Maine coast. The gulls of Boston harbor and thereabouts have particular roosting places on the water.

Put Up Every Pound of Fruit You Can Get This Summer

Delicious Jams, Jellies and Preserves made by this recipe:

Many a woman hesitates to try putting up fruit at home.

She fears she will only waste expensive materials.

It really is very simple. Just make your preserving syrup with $\frac{1}{2}$ Karo (Red Label) and $\frac{1}{2}$ sugar instead of sugar alone.

You can then be as sure of your results as the woman who always has "luck" with her preserving.

Nice fine, clear Karo Syrup has a natural affinity for the fruit juices. It blends the sugar with the juice—brings out the rich "fruity" flavor, and insures firm jams and jellies that never "candy" in the glass.

A well-filled fruit pantry will give you much pleasure this winter, when fresh fruits are scarce and high, if you just use Karo Syrup with your sugar.

For Cooking, Baking and Candy Making Karo (Red Label) is used in millions of homes. In all cooking and baking recipes use Karo instead of sugar. It is sweet, of delicate flavor, and brings out the natural flavor of the food.

FREE Preserving is easy when you have the sixty-eight page Corn Products Cook Book handy. Wonderful recipes—easy to follow. Beautiful illustrations. Write us today for it. It is free.

EVERY SOLDIER, SAILOR OR MARINE IN COUNTY INVITED

Owing to the difficulty experienced by the invitation committee in getting a complete and official list of every soldier, sailor and Marine in Greene county, there will probably be some of these fighting sons who will not receive an invitation to the Home Coming Celebration to be held here next Monday, Labor Day.

These men are not only welcome but are expected to be present just the same and they are requested not to feel slighted because they did not receive an invitation for its practically impossible to get the name of every one of the service men in this county. This may be taken as a general invitation to all soldiers, sailors and Marines to be present on that day.

Soldier, sailor or marine visitor in the city on that day will also be included among the guests of honor. The Greene county service men are reminded of a meeting to be held in the Assembly room of the court house at ten o'clock in the morning of Monday, for the purpose of organizing a local post of the American Legion. TELLS WHY SHE BOUGHT SECOND BOTTLE OF DRECO

Dayton Lady Had Tried Many Remedies For Constipation, Headaches, Stomach Troubles, But None Helped Like Dreco Did.

"I tried one bottle of Dreco, and it did me so much good I got the second one, and now I am buying the third, and I am feeling a whole lot better," said Mrs. Julia Bader, of 321 W. Hartford St., Dayton, O.

"I have suffered for years with a bad stomach trouble, and all my food seemed to ferment and fill me up with gas, and cause awful pains. It felt like I was choking sometimes, and I could not swallow it down, nor spit it out. Constipation was a continual source of annoyance, and I often had splitting headaches, which nothing would relieve. My nerves were shattered and my sleep badly broken, for I would roll and toss all night long, and when morning came, would be exhausted."

"So many of my friends had tried Dreco, with such good results, that I decided to try it also, and without a doubt, it has reached my case, for I now eat most anything I crave, and it never hurts me the slightest. I am never bothered with the gas or pains, and the constipation has gone entirely. My nerves are much stronger, and I get good, full night's rest now, and wake up fresh and full of vigor. I haven't had headache since the second day I started on Dreco. I certainly do recommend Dreco, for it has done me a world of good."

Dreco does not contain any iron mercury, potash, acids or oils, but is made from the juices and extracts of many herbal plants, which combine with the juices of the stomach very pleasantly and act on the vital organs.

All good druggists now sell Dreco and it is highly recommended in Xenia by Sohn's Drug Store.

one is urged to attend this important meeting.

The necessity of having enough food for several hundred hungry soldier boys is another problem before the committee and people are urged not to forget to bring their share of food for the free dinner to soldiers. If a basket cannot be filled anything in the way of eatables will be gladly accepted by the committee, of which Mrs. Chas. S. Dean is chairman.

The program of the day is varied and promises not a lagging moment throughout the day. It is expected that people will begin arriving in the city early and will spend the entire day here, many of them bringing picnic meals.

FIFTY-TWO EGGS USED IN CAKE FOR SOLDIERS' DINNER

Fifty-two eggs were used in the concoction of a huge cake which was a feature of the dinner to returned soldiers of Lumberton, and vicinity which was given at the Methodist church in that city, Monday night.

Mrs. Jerome Devoe baked the monstrous confection, which was served to the soldiers alone.

Fourteen returned soldiers and two Red Cross nurses in uniform were present. Long tables were set, serving 110 people, and it is estimated that 300 persons were served.

An interesting program was given in connection with the celebration. The principal address was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Crist, pastor of the Wilmington Presbyterian church, and an entertaining musical program was also presented.

There was an effective touch given to the program when Miss Doris Straunor of Wilmington sang, "The Rose of No Man's Land," while the two uniformed Red Cross nurses stood.

"To get into an empty car. It goes to Meriden, my home town, and that is the only way, unless I walk."

"I see you have done something in that line already," suggested Trask, glancing at her broken shoes, one heel less and its side ripped by a rail spike.

"Yes, clear from Chicago. I can't barefooted as I will soon be if I keep on tramping, so I was going to stay my way."

Myron Trask took a silent survey of the forlorn little figure. He steadied himself erect and breathed hard through compressed lips. "See here, Miss," he said finally, "I had a sister once, and you've set me thinking. Tell me a little about yourself and maybe I can help you on your way."

"Why, yes, I'll tell you all about it," said the girl with ingenuous frankness. "My name is Irma Daiziel. I have been filling little speaking part in 'Hearts and Homes.' Good people they were, from the manager down. I ran away from home to join them. They went to pieces last week and there wasn't enough left to pay car fare. I've written father and mother that I am through with my foolish dream of becoming a great actress and am on my way back to the dear old place I'll never leave again. Oh never—never—never!"

"So longing, so intense, so rapturous were the accents, so vivid, so rapturous did they frame within the mentality of Myron Trask, that he seemed to covet such a paradise of relief and joy, as if for himself, for Trask was on the seat of contrition and repentance at the present time.

"Strange, Miss," he said in an uncertain tone, "but you and I seem to be in the same boat. I got my dismissal from service last week for going on a bout with the crowd. The road may or may not take me back, but no more of the reckless and silly for me. I've got no money, but the hotel will give Myron Trask anything he wants, and you're going to go there with me and get a good meal. Then you are going to the depot and wait for the 8:15 passenger. I'll put you in charge of old Boyd Wesley, the conductor. He'll see you onto the branch at Aberdeen. At that terminus you'll have only fifty-six miles on the Northern. And when you get back to your dear little home, stay there, and once in a while think of the railroad lads, rough and ready, and sometimes reckless, but with hearts as big as pumpkins when they see a woman needing help."

"Why you almost make me cry," said Irma soberly. "You'd make a star hit on the stage with such a human interest speech as that. I'll never forget you."

"Maybe I'd have made a better record and kept straight if I had been lucky enough to run across a girl like you," said Myron, with a slight catch in his voice, as he bade her goodby at the depot. "Show this card to whatever conductor you run across," and he handed her a bit of pasteboard upon which he had scrawled a few words. "I'm not much just now, but my name will go as far as that of the president of the road with my true pals."

A sudden rush of tears came to the eyes of Irma as she clasped the hand of her benefactor. She leaned towards him and impulsively kissed his bronzed, beard-tothed face with the words: "How your dead sister must have loved you!" Then a moment later she waved adieu to him through an open coach window and for a long time after the train had gone Myron Trask stood reflecting, caressing the cheek where that warm kiss of gratitude had been bestowed.

It was noticeable by the former reckless comrades of Myron later that he eschewed their company and idleness. By some influence he became reinstated with the road and asked for a position as station agent and his chosen post was the little town where Irma lived.

She was not a dull girl and she discerned a motive in his seeking to be near her. He was frank and outspoken and he emphasized the why and wherefore by a free confession when they had become better acquainted. And so they were married.

Better Days

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western News paper Union.)

Cuddled up like a mouse, lying upon a rude board bench at the side of an abandoned switch shanty, her hand supporting her head and enmeshed in a mass of loose golden tresses, the girl, fast asleep, wore a smile upon her face as though her dreams were pleasant ones.

She could not have been over eighteen and her worn and ragged dress and crinkled ribbons were not in accord with the general neatness of her attire. A man lurched by, young like herself, paused and stared hard.

"Well, this is a new one!" he muttered. "I say, little one, wake up! This old switch yard is no place for you."

He had touched one hand lying loosely over the edge of the bench. The girl aroused so magically quick and her big blue eyes opened so wide and challenging that Myron Trask retreated a step or two.

"That is the 6:15 western dispatch, isn't it—can you tell me?"

"I can," nodded Trask, "but what have you to do with the 6:15?"

"To get into an empty car. It goes to Meriden, my home town, and that is the only way, unless I walk."

"I see you have done something in that line already," suggested Trask, glancing at her broken shoes, one heel less and its side ripped by a rail spike.

"Yes, clear from Chicago. I can't barefooted as I will soon be if I keep on tramping, so I was going to stay my way."

Myron Trask took a silent survey of the forlorn little figure. He steadied himself erect and breathed hard through compressed lips. "See here, Miss," he said finally, "I had a sister once, and you've set me thinking. Tell me a little about yourself and maybe I can help you on your way."

"Why, yes, I'll tell you all about it," said the girl with ingenuous frankness. "My name is Irma Daiziel. I have been filling little speaking part in 'Hearts and Homes.' Good people they were, from the manager down. I ran away from home to join them. They went to pieces last week and there wasn't enough left to pay car fare. I've written father and mother that I am through with my foolish dream of becoming a great actress and am on my way back to the dear old place I'll never leave again. Oh never—never—never!"

"So longing, so intense, so rapturous were the accents, so vivid, so rapturous did they frame within the mentality of Myron Trask, that he seemed to covet such a paradise of relief and joy, as if for himself, for Trask was on the seat of contrition and repentance at the present time.

"Strange, Miss," he said in an uncertain tone, "but you and I seem to be in the same boat. I got my dismissal from service last week for going on a bout with the crowd. The road may or may not take me back, but no more of the reckless and silly for me. I've got no money, but the hotel will give Myron Trask anything he wants, and you're going to go there with me and get a good meal. Then you are going to the depot and wait for the 8:15 passenger. I'll put you in charge of old Boyd Wesley, the conductor. He'll see you onto the branch at Aberdeen. At that terminus you'll have only fifty-six miles on the Northern. And when you get back to your dear little home, stay there, and once in a while think of the railroad lads, rough and ready, and sometimes reckless, but with hearts as big as pumpkins when they see a woman needing help."

"Why you almost make me cry," said Irma soberly. "You'd make a star hit on the stage with such a human interest speech as that. I'll never forget you."

"Maybe I'd have made a better record and kept straight if I had been lucky enough to run across a girl like you," said Myron, with a slight catch in his voice, as he bade her goodby at the depot. "Show this card to whatever conductor you run across," and he handed her a bit of pasteboard upon which he had scrawled a few words. "I'm not much just now, but my name will go as far as that of the president of the road with my true pals."

A sudden rush of tears came to the eyes of Irma as she clasped the hand of her benefactor. She leaned towards him and impulsively kissed his bronzed, beard-tothed face with the words: "How your dead sister must have loved you!" Then a moment later she waved adieu to him through an open coach window and for a long time after the train had gone Myron Trask stood reflecting, caressing the cheek where that warm kiss of gratitude had been bestowed.

It was noticeable by the former reckless comrades of Myron later that he eschewed their company and idleness. By some influence he became reinstated with the road and asked for a position as station agent and his chosen post was the little town where Irma lived.

She was not a dull girl and she discerned a motive in his seeking to be near her. He was frank and outspoken and he emphasized the why and wherefore by a free confession when they had become better acquainted. And so they were married.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S
STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC ON RAILWAY WAGES.

Postponement of the settlement of wage demands until normal economic conditions are restored was announced Monday by President Wilson as will pursue in dealing with such questions, particularly those affecting railroad workers.

The President announced also that it was neither wise nor reasonable at this time, when the most important question before the country is a return to a normal price level, to attempt to increase freight rates to provide funds for higher wages.

We ought to postpone questions of sorts until we have the opportunity for certain calculation as to the relations between wages and the cost of living," the President declared.

In a statement to the public explaining his decision as to wages, it is the duty of every citizen to insist upon a true in such contests unintelligent settlements can be made, and made by peace and effective common counsel. I appeal to fellow citizens of every employment to co-operate in insisting upon and maintaining such a truce."

While we are all in the same boat, the railroader, the factory employee, the bookkeeper, the farm hand, and others, as to the high cost of living it seems little singular that a single class of these, the railroader should be continually menacing the country for higher wages—and this with the well known fact that he is already by far the best paid one of the lot—and his demand always accompanied with the understood threat that "if not granted, we will strike."

We are not saying this. It is the President of the United States who says it, and goes so far as to get down on his knees, metaphorically speaking, in his signed appeal to his fellow citizens in presenting the case to the country.

We quote from a Chicago dispatch:

"The upward movement in wages and salaries has been uneven. The railroad engineers get $350 to $400 a month, while the bookkeeper has to content himself with half that much.

There is no such difference in the abilities of the two classes of men as to justify this wide gap in compensation."

With the country's conditions as they are, how can the Xenia employer of the carpenter, the bricklayer, the bookkeeper, the plumber, the tinner, the painter, the printer, the cordage worker or the shoe factory hand afford to pay even half as much as some of these railroaders get?

And yet the railroader, whose pay has been raised over and over again is continually on the firing line for increased wages. We have all lost employees because of the high prices paid by the railroads.

Everybody wants the railroader to have good wages, but likewise everybody wants him to realize that "Consistency is a jewel."

BINDER MAY BUILD
PERMANENT MARKET

Booths for Xenia's first Municipal Market were being erected in the Binder lot on South Detroit street, Tuesday in preparation for opening the market.

Many of the booths have been spoken for and it is expected that a number of hucksters who have been taking their produce to Dayton and Springfield and other cities, will take advantage of the market here and sign up for space.

The booths erected are of wooden frame work with canvas tops and are relics of the old Fall Festival days. Gravel walks are being built in front of the booths and the lot has also been filled in. A man has not yet been named to have charge of the city booth where the city will handle small sales, but such an appointment will be made shortly.

"If this market is a success I will build a good market building," said H. L. Binder, owner of the lot, to City Manager Riddle, Monday.

CARNEGIE AND EDUCATION.

Nearly all the money given away by Andrew Carnegie, amounting to hundreds of millions, was devoted to educational purposes. He established libraries and educational institutions, particularly along technical lines. He was ready to help any plan for public instruction, if it could be shown that the plan was practical.

He may have over-emphasized the view. Certainly even this modern life is more than steel machinery and electricity. What old-fashioned people call "the humanities" and "general culture" are still necessary to be insisted on more than ever, perhaps, because the present tendency is so much the other way, toward the severely practical.

But Mr. Carnegie never placed a ban on the education of the spirit. In the libraries he founded and even in the institutions he created anyone might read as much poetry and study as much philosophy and religion and art and history as he liked. And he put no fetters on the colleges he befriended; the professors were free to continue their cultural, humanitarian idealistic work along with the technical work with which the philanthropist was primarily concerned.

Mr. Carnegie's philanthropy might be said to represent the present attitude of the American people. There is greater stress than ever placed on education. The bulk of public money is always spent on schools. Instruction is being made more practical than ever before, more closely related to every-day life, better calculated to help boys and girls to a mastery of the knowledge and skill required to make their way in this modern industrial world. "Vocational and technical training are gaining steadily. Education is being more widely diffused and is being given a more direct, useful relation to life.

SANDRA THE JEALOUS
BY JANE PHELPS.SANDRA TELLS EVERETT A FEW TRUTHS
CHAPTER LI.

To my astonishment Everett said nothing about my looks. He was late and after giving me a cold little kiss, we went immediately to the dining room.

"Your friend has gone?" he asked. "Yes." Then emboldened that he had not scolded because I had cried, I added: "She couldn't very well stay after—" I hesitated.

"After what?" Everett demanded.

"After the way you talked to me, and the way you acted last night." I replied desperately. But somehow when Everett looked at me so sternly, and in that voice questioned me, I just had to speak the truth.

"Did I tell you you might invite guests?"

"No Everett. But I was lonely. I don't know any young people my own age to talk to and I didn't think you would object to my asking Rose as you weren't here to be annoyed with her. I get so tired of knowing no one but old people—older than I am. I used to have so many friends, all the boys and girls in town. Now I have no one." Tears of self-pity rolled down my cheeks. I was nervous, my head ached, I hadn't slept the night before because of Everett's attitude, and I had cried nearly two hours. Was it any wonder that I said things I would not have dared had I been in normal condition?

"I am so old I don't count for anyone." His tone was bitter. "You will please leave the table. I will send your coffee and dessert to your room. One would think you needed dolls to play with instead of the boys and girls whose society you say you miss so dreadfully!"

I rose from the table, but something, I don't know what, made me stop and lay my hand on Everett's shoulder and say:

"I am sorry I annoyed you by having Rose."

He made no reply, and I went to my room. In a moment Hetty brought me my dessert and coffee. I couldn't eat, but I drank the coffee, then threw myself on the bed and again sobbed as if my heart would break. I was in the hysterical throes of sorrow for myself and heard nothing until Hetty came in to undress the bed for night.

Then I heard the front door close I hurried to the window. Everett was walking rapidly away from the house. Once I thought he looked back, but I couldn't be sure. My tears flowed afresh. He knew I was unhappy, sick and utterly miserable, but he had gone out—leaving me alone without trying to console me.

Please don't cry any more, Mrs. Graham, you're surely sick if you do," Hetty begged after she finished her work.

"I'm sick now, Hetty, so it won't make any difference."

"Can—I—help you—do anything?"

"No, thank you, Hetty. Just leave me alone." As she closed the door in response to my request, I impulsively called her back. She was only a servant, but she was a girl my own age: "I didn't mean to speak so sharply, Hetty. But my head aches."

"Let me bathe it for you," She took the bottle of eau de cologne from the dressing table, and for half an hour she bathed my head, smoothing away the pain in both head and heart with her hands. Finally she said: "I think you'll sleep now—thank you for letting me do it for you," and was gone. But somehow I felt comforted. I was not asleep when Everett came in although I pretended to be. He spoke, but I made no answer. Then he came over to the bed and leaning down he kissed me ever so lightly. As he turned away, he sighed so heavily I was tempted to ask him what was the matter but restrained myself. I was so surprised at his gentle kiss, so puzzled by it after his leaving me alone in my unhappy mood the very first evening after his return, that I hated even to speak for fear he would again say something to hurt me.

He undressed in the dark, and was so quiet I scarcely heard a sound. He is nice not to wake me up, I thought.

So I went to sleep—kind thoughts of the man who wouldn't understand my craving for companionship in my mind.

The hermit thrush is declared to be the most talented and brilliant singer in the world, not even excepting the nightingale, says the American Forestry Association. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Ginaven, and his bride were given a hearty welcome by his parents and other relatives, and they are enjoying very much their stay at the country home of the Ginavens, where the little French girl is becoming acquainted with her new American relatives.

GREENE COUNTY SOLDIER IS HOME WITH FRENCH BRIDE

William Edgar Ginaven, and his pretty little French bride, who before her marriage was Mademoiselle Lucette Beneventi of Nice, that delightful seaport and health resort on the Mediterranean, have arrived here, and are temporarily guests of Mr. Ginaven's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Ginaven of the Beaver Creek road.

Crossing the Atlantic on the Victoria, a converted German vessel, Mr. Ginaven and his bride, were one couple among sixty bridegrooms and brides who made the trip. The husbands were American soldiers, and the wives, French girls who had plighted their troth to the khaki clad youths from overseas.

The Victoria arrived at port in New York and the men aboard were given their discharge from the army at the dock. While they were being discharged the brides were taken in charge by the Red Cross who turned them over to the care of the Y. W. C. A., and their husbands, upon getting their release from army service, joined them at a Y. W. hostess house in New York City. The vessel docked last Friday and Mr. and Mrs. Ginaven reached home Sunday.

Mr. Ginaven says that his wife is delighted with America and with her new found friends here, and she is fast picking up the American tongue. He is planning to return to the employment in Dayton which he held before the war, and if so he and his bride will take up their residence in that city.

Mr. Ginaven was overseas 16 months. He was a gunner in the 104th Infantry, 26th division, and was at Chateaud'Thierry, St. Mihiel and the Argonne. He was twice gassed, but both times recovered without it being necessary for him to go to a permanent hospital.

After the armistice was signed he was sent to a school, where he spent three months and was then attached to the 269th Military Police Corps. He did duty in Paris, as a motorcycle officer, and there met his bride, who was in that city visiting her sister, who was a dressmaker.

He met the Mademoiselle Beneventi through his "buddy" William Grossly of North Adams, Mass., who married the other sister, Emilie. Their courtship was brief, for the young people met in March and in July they were married at Rambrezil, France. Young Grossly had married Mademoiselle Emilie a few weeks earlier, and he and his bride returned to the states on the same vessel which carried Mr. and Mrs. Ginaven.

Mr. Ginaven and his bride were given a hearty welcome by his parents and other relatives, and they are enjoying very much their stay at the country home of the Ginavens, where the little French girl is becoming acquainted with her new American relatives.

The monoplane has a passenger carrying capacity of twenty-six persons besides the crew, and is the first in a fleet which, according to present plans, will operate from coast to coast. Half the fuselage of the big plane is utilized for a passenger cabin. Seats are placed at the windows on each side of the cabin. The ship is propelled by two 12-cylinder Liberty motors, aggregating 800 horsepower, and can maintain a speed of 90 to 100 miles an hour. The wing spread is 95 feet, length of body is 50 feet. The height of the aircraft is 15 feet over all.

He gave steps which would be taken in construction and guidance of the organization, dwelling at some length on the machinery of the movement, the necessary income follows:

A carefully compiled list of members who should support a movement, made in card form.

The number of the members in that each should carry based on the benefits to be expected, and men of similar standing in other cities are doing, indicated on each card.

The Brunswick

ALL PHONOGRAHES IN ONE

Why the Brunswick Method of Reproduction Insures
a Superior Phonograph

Reason No. 1 The Brunswick Method of Reproduction includes the Ultona, a new conception in playing. The Ultona consists of an arrangement of the several necessary reproducing diaphragms upon one tone arm—an all-in-one arrangement, with no attachments—nothing to take off or put on.

At a turn of the hand, the Ultona presents to any type of record the proper diaphragm and needle, the exact weight. Thus the requirements of each type of record are met. The Ultona demands no sacrifice in tone, as attachments often do.

Reason No. 2 Equal in importance to reproduction is tone amplification. The Brunswick Method of Reproduction also includes a new idea in acoustics—the Brunswick Amplifier.

Old-time ideas were at variance. Some makers still cling to metal construction. Others use a combination of wood and metal—a wooden horn and a metal casting as the "throat."

But the Brunswick Amplifier is oval in shape, and built entirely of wood, like a fine violin. It is molded of rare holly-wood. The sound waves receive uniform amplification to reach their fullness, hence the Brunswick tone is richer and more natural. Strident, metallic notes are absent.

We Invite Comparison
Make comparisons. Let your ear decide. Try to find an equal to Brunswick tone.

You're bound to end such a search at a Brunswick shop, where every opportunity will be given to you to decide for yourself.

RAINBOW DIVISION BAND WILL BE REAL MUSICAL TREAT TO XENIANSLIEUT. W. A. SANDS
Director.RALPH SANDS,
Saxophone Player.

One of the biggest features of the concert to be given Friday evening at the Opera House, by the Rainbow Division Band, formerly known as the "Old Fourth Ohio," will be the stirring French March, the "Division of the Ace." This march, the composition of which was presented to Lieut. Willard A. Sands, the band leader, by Capt. Cribile, of the famous 60th French Infantry (Ace Division) employs trumpets in a manner new to American band music.

A double line of trumpeters, their horns decorated with banners bearing "166th Infantry," in gold letters, stand at attention, their instruments by their sides until time for them to play. When they get their cue, they raise their horns as one man, giving them the now famous French twirl and set them to their lips with a precision as even as the rhythm of their music. With the gold fringed purple banners and their stalwart, straight figures, they look like heralds of knighthood days.

Then they suddenly shift formation, the horns and cornets being brought to the center, and with Frank Carbone, the leader of the band, as solo cornet, lift their voices again to "Till We Meet Again."

Those who have heard the band before it left for overseas, insist that this is where the band's playing has broadened wonderfully Carbone's horn has added something to its golden sweetness, and the support, the fine swelling ensemble, the unity and swell of the diminished show trained players under a trained master.

Whether it was the long absence from home, with music as the logical expression for the eager wistfulness of two years separation, or the association with the brilliance of French field music that accomplished the change, the band, excellent as it was before it left overseas, has come back immensely improved. There is a unity of companionship in their playing that only the sharing of hardship brings, there is a breadth that embraces tenderness and fire.

The band is stopping in Xenia for a concert because of an open date between the Ohio State Fair and the fair at Lexington, Ky. Xenia people are fortunate to have this opportunity of hearing this really famous band.

AIRPLANE LICENSES
NEXT THING IN ORDER

Twenty years ago the automobile was in its infancy. Today it has reached the apex of achievement.

At present the airplane is but little farther along than the automobile was at that time. As a commercial asset the destination prophesied for it was still in the bud.

But there are those who believe that the advance of the airplane will be more rapid than that of the automobile. One of these optimists seems to be a Kansas City alderman, who according to the Kansas City star, has recently introduced an ordinance into council establishing airplane traffic regulations.

The ordinance would require aviators to fly at a minimum of 3,500 feet when sailing over the city and prohibits aerobatic stunts in the city's limits. It also provides that all pilots be subject to strict tests before allowed to use Kansas air-lanes.

All of this seems funny now but is probably the forerunner of legislation that will be necessary in a few years.

Xenia may see another source of revenue in airplane licenses and another cause for a speed cap in the atmospheric byways above our heads.

"NUT" WOULD BUILD A MOON IN PACIFIC OCEAN

Springfield, Ill., August 27—Mayor Bauman may be a great promoter, but he's fallen down on his latest task. He simply can't build a moon in the center of the Pacific Ocean. Somebody wrote him about it. It's a money making scheme, evidently.

for the writer says: "Let's start using manyands several money and silver, pay me my money and I pay you your money, a star for every stripe the moon should go higher, 7 sevens loose me lay me down to sleep my baby, my baby, sure the kid is doing it." Then follow a lot of cabalistic signs that are said to have something to do with the movement of the planets or the wheels in somebody's head. The mayor hasn't decided yet whether someone is kidding him or whether the weather has gone to someone's head, but he's suspicious as "sheek."

Life's Little Peeves.

Life is just one thing after another, but chiefly it's getting up to do something you have forgotten after being comfortably settled in your chair for work or reading.

Qualities of True Beauty.

Who has not experienced how, on nearer acquaintance, plainness becomes beautified and beauty loses its charm, according to the quality of the heart and mind?

MOTORADS

Most motorists have the wrong impression about the pressure of air in tires in warm weather. The belief is quite common that on hot days the air pressure may increase to the point of causing a blowout. There is really nothing to this for the heat does not come from the temperature of the air on the outside, as is commonly supposed, but from the natural flexing of the tire as it rolls over the road.

As this heat is due to the bending of the tire, the same amount of heat is created regardless of the outside temperature. Most tire users believe that to overcome this effect the pressure must be decreased, and the compromise is to run tires iati less pressure on warm days. But this increases the bending of the tire carcass and the motorist actually aggravates the tire condition that he seeks to relieve when he decreases the pressure in the tires.

It is true that on a very hot day the air pressure in tires that are used continually increases slightly, but never sufficiently to cause any injury to the tires. Tires are notas fragile as some suppose and are able to stand three or four times the ordinary pressure used. There is more danger in decreasing the pressure than in permitting it to increase.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

"What is the procedure when a couple leaves a public dining room?" asked nervous Nettie.

"The lady precedes the gentleman when leaving," replied her mother. "At the door the man receive his hat from the attendant, which attention is usually rewarded with a small tip."

Sacred Mantilla.

In Spain a woman's mantilla is held sacred by law and cannot be sold for debt.

"What's in a Name?"
The French Island of Reunion has changed its name four times in 5 years. In 1793 it was Bourbon, as it had been for a century and a half, until the convention changed it to Reunion. Under the empire it became Isle d'France; at the Restoration it reverted to Bourbon. Finally, in 1848, it became Reunion once more.
